Biltmore Hand-Woven Homespun

Strictly hand-woven and containing not a fibre of anything but new sheep's wool.

Hand-dyed with vegetable and ALIZARINE dyes. No aniline dyes used. Every color guaranteed.

We use no lamb's wool because it shrinks almost as long as it lasts.

After we dye the wool in its raw state, we card, spin, weave and dry-clean it, then scour it two hours in hot Ivory Soap suds, and dry it on tenter hook fences in the sun.

There are about two hundred weaves and colors and we never make two batches of the same pattern just alike.

Biltmore Homespuns were originated nearly twenty years ago by Mrs. Geo. W. Vanderbilt on the famous Biltmore Estate, and are the outgrowth of her philanthropy through the establishment of an Industrial School in Biltmore Village, where boys and girls were taught Wood-Carving and Hand-Weaving.

Later it became known as the Biltmore Estate Industries, and after it had outgrown the bounds of a school it was sold to Mr. F. L. Seely, who built and operates Grove Park Inn (the finest resort hotel in the world), located only a short distance from Biltmore Village.

Old English shop buildings were built on the grounds at the Inn. More looms were built by our own men and boys, and we have grown until now there are over ninety workers at the Homespun weaving, and we have friends who patronize us as far away as Shanghai, China; Uruguay, Alaska, Hawaiian Islands, Europe, and thousands upon thousands of towns and cities at home.

We have been awarded two gold and one silver medals.

All Biltmore Homespuns are precisely the same on either side. We have seen men's suits that had been worn two and three years, then turned inside out and made over.

Regular weights	$3.50 per yard
Summer weights	$3.25 per yard
Overcoat	$3.25 per yard

Seven to eight yards are required for a lady's suit.

WELLS METHOD

Remember that you only pay for the time you spend here. If you work hard and finish in half the time that it takes some one else to finish, you only pay half as much. The only school run in a common-sense manner in the country. If you have a job, we can always find a time during the day or evening when you can take one of these courses without interfering with your job.

Cleaning and Dyeing

Our Cleaning and Dyeing plant is also one of the largest and most modernly equipped in the state. Nearly 50 experts are employed. Everything cleanable and dyeable from rugs and draperies to the most luxurious, costly fabrics may be entrusted to our skilled staff.

*Dry Cleaning
Dyeing
Pressing*

ONE of the thirteen virtues of the great Franklin was "Cleanliness." The above quotation is the doctrine he preached and practiced.

This was more than 200 years ago when the crudest sort of cleaning methods were used. When "keeping clean" required strenuous efforts.

Think what science has brought to the present generation. The conveniences, the machinery and skilled workmen which make Cleanliness an easy, delightful part of our daily program.

The Asheville Laundry keeps pace with every modern appliance and method. Two big plants are operated to render Ashevillians a "Complete Cleaning Service." Every article of wearing apparel as well as all household textiles can be laundered, cleaned or dyed without the least effort on the part of its owner.

To live up to Franklin's maxim today, one simply steps to the telephone, calls one of our easy numbers, and the rest of the work and service is ours.

BREAD AND MILK

WHAT sunburned child, when hours of play have made him tired and hungry, does not delight in a bowl of bread and milk? What student, whose brain is weary from long hours of constant study, does not desire a lunch of bread and milk? The overburdened housewife, tired from her daily tasks, can quickly regain her strength by eating bread and milk. The man who labors with his hands, who works from early morn till night in the heat of the summer's sun, or who endures the winter's cold, can find no better refreshment for his tired body when the day's work is done than a supper that begins with bread and milk. After hours of mental strain in a downtown office where work and worry and the keenest competition are ever present, the man of business may renew his strength and vitality by a simple meal of bread and milk. Teachers, doctors, preachers—professional people of every sort—who bear the burdens of a busy, suffering world, may obtain relief from nervous strain by eating bread and milk. All who are weary and overburdened with work or worry may find life and strength and pleasure in a good old-fashioned bowl of bread and milk.

February Class Poem

JULIA BLAUVELT

As I gaze in the flickering firelight,
My thoughts pursue separate ways,
Touching here and there pictures in memory
Of the joys of our High School Days.

Idly, as boats at rest drifting,
Swaying from side to side,
From the past to the unknown future,
Then back to the past they glide.

They linger tenderly, sweetly,
With a subtle, sorrowing pain
On the school and the memories in it,
That can never be lived again.

On the friends who were dear and faithful;
On the teachers ever true,
Under whose loving guidance
Our souls, minds, and bodies grew.

Then peeping in the land of tomorrow,
Through the future's open gate
That swings back on its golden hinges,
Where the tasks that are ours wait.

I see our class in the future,
Go dauntless and unafraid,
To the tasks that have waited for ages
For which only men are made.

And I think when our lives are over,
As our school days now are through,
That the world will be a debtor
To the Class of Twenty-Two.

February Class History

RUTH FANNING

NOW that our high school days are done, we can look back over them with a mingled feeling of pride, of pleasure, and of pain. Of pride, because we feel that we have accomplished much; of pleasure, because of the good times we have shared; and of pain, because they will be ours no more.

What a happy bunch we were when we walked into the old building on the corner of Broadway and Woodfin, now used for the Y.M.C.A. We had been given instructions by our teachers at the grammar schools on how to make out our schedules and had been told by them to report to room A. How important we felt that day! It did not take the sophomores long, however, to make us realize that we were not so important as we thought and that we were only a small factor in the school life and a very small one at that. We were often directed by them to some senior class only to be laughed at and greeted with "greenie" or "freshie." But it was not long before we could find our way through the halls to our classrooms without help, and soon we began to really accomplish things. We are proud to say that our class helped Uncle Sam during the great World War. We were a one hundred per cent Thrift Stamp class and the girls of our class knitted squares which were put together to form a beautiful quilt which was given to the soldiers at Oteen Hospital. Our girls also did Red Cross work this year, and we are very proud to say that although we were "freshies" one of our classmates made a Thrift Stamp speech on the square. This year most of us joined the literary societies; the boys joined the Athenean or Cooper Society while the girls became Bluebirds.

Then came our sophomore year. What a joy it was for us to see that the freshmen which entered were as green as we were the term before, and a little greener we thought. Our class by this time had grown smaller, for some of our classmates had dropped out of school and some had failed on their subjects and were left behind. Many things happened during our sophomore year. The schools were forced to close for several weeks, because of the "flu" epidemic. We thought it was wonderful to have a vacation, but when the seven weeks were up, we didn't find it so pleasant when we had to attend school six days a week to make it up. Our principal, Mr. M. K. Weber, was made superintendent of the city schools, and Mr. A. J. Hutchins, the head of the History Department, took his place as principal. Then we moved from the old building on Broadway to the beautiful new one on the corner of Oak and College, where we have spent the remainder of our school days.

Next came our junior year. Now we felt even more important knowing that we should soon become seniors. We spent this year studying hard preparing ourselves for our coming honor, while our poetic instincts were developed and our knowledge of geometry became solid.

At last we reached the plane which at first seemed so high to us—we became seniors. Having once attained the coveted place, it did not seem quite so superior to us. In fact, we had so much to do, so much to decide, and so many outside activities that we forgot that we were at last at our pinnacle of achievement. Though a small class we were one hundred per cent for THE HILLBILLY and Athletic Association. We competed with the June Class in selling tickets to the Lyceum Course. In spite of our small size we led them a close race, and finally, though having more than three times our number, they won by less than two dollars. We had several parties. One of our class, Gertrude Tennant, took part in the Triangular Debate. All of our class have been loyal in supporting all school activities.

But all this is now behind us. These years are a fond memory, an inspiration to achievements in the future and a source of many loyal friendships that will last throughout our lives. Yes, we are departing now owing much to you, Asheville High School, but we are leaving you with our motto, "Through trials to the stars," on our lips and some day we hope that you may be proud of the February Class of 1922.

February Class Will

WE, the February Class of 1922, being of feeble mind and of weak intellect, fearing that the trials and tribulations of graduation be too much for our crammed craniums, and in order that the memory of our class may be kept as green as we are, do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament.

First. To the several members of the faculty we bequeath the following:

1. To Mr. Hutchins—An underground passage between the office and the stage to be used when going to chapel to prevent his being mobbed by the legion of O.K. seekers.
2. To Mrs. Hoffman—A rocking chair and periscope for use in the corridor while on the lookout for locker-openers.
3. To Miss Johns—Several gallons of gasoline at seventy-five cents per for use in collecting stage properties in West Asheville.
4. To Miss Stratton—Wireless connections with all members of the future HILLBILLY staff for use in case of emergency.
5. To Mr. Hyatt—A season's pass to the Imperial with the provision that it may be used by Dorothy Jordan, Patricia Edgeworth, and Gertrude Tennant during their hours of "Diversion."
6. To Miss Moody—A brand-new Ford to replace "Ye old family surrey" hitched in the back yard.
7. To Mr. Bigham—Mr. Ropp's book entitled "Why Girls Fall for Me."
8. To Mrs. Crawford—A vacuum cleaner to be used in cleaning the study hall floors.

Second. To the several members of this institution we bequeath the following:

1. To each member of the Senior High School—A clothespin to be worn on nose while passing the laboratory, immediately following an experiment with sulphur.
2. To Frances Nichols—A simplified copy of "Mother Goose Rhymes" to keep her quiet while big sister entertains her beau.
3. To Elizabeth Pillé—Gertrude Tennant's gift for gab with the exception of, "I tremble to think of it."
4. To Rosamond McCanless—Joe Cantwell's permanent wave.
5. To all 8A's—A place in the rear for parking Kiddie Kars.
6. To Ezra Wellins—Elizabeth Cobb's complexion.
7. To Ruby Evans—Addie Wilson's hair pins.
8. To Conn Bryan—Franklin Kilpatrick's wild way with the women.
9. To Dorothy Nichols—A portable pencil sharpener.

Lastly. To the school, a life size picture of Mr. Brooker, so that the coming generations may have the pleasure, long denied us, of occasionally beholding their superintendent.

We, Dorothy Jordan and Julia Blauvelt, being mentally deficient and in our wrong minds, affix hereto our sign and seal this the first day of April in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and twenty-two. We do solemnly testify this to be the first, last, and only will of the February Class of 1922.

(Signed) DOROTHY JORDAN,
 JULIA BLAUVELT.

June Class Poem

NORMA MCLEAN

Alma Mater, Classmates, All—
Soon we'll leave this cherished hall,
Soon we'll enter life alone,
Our fames uncertain, names unknown.

Four happy years we've all toiled here
In walls that hold remembrance dear;
And now, our last few fond hours bring
Sweet mem'ries back to which we cling.

Our high school education through,
We'll take a reminiscent view,
And roll time back to our first year—
Perhaps our course you'd like to hear.

Then we, as Freshmen, meek and shy,
Wander 'round with roving eye.
At first, incredulous we were
At all the busy buzz and stir.

The Freshman year was short and sweet,
We even learned to be discreet.
The Seniors teased us much in fun,
But even their respect we won.

Oh, Alma Mater, Classmates, All—
We hate to leave this loved hall,
But wish each one a like success,
And a long, long life to A. H. S.

The Freshman "baby carriage" dropt,
More dignity we did adopt.
And then, as Sophomores we tried
To make our narrow minds more wide.

That year was very happy, too;
Advancements many, failures few.
We wouldn't have appeared so fine,
But over "Freshies" we could shine.

As Juniors we forgot that pride
As quickly through our books we plied.
That year our efforts we all lent,
For Senior heights our heads we bent.

The height of our ambitions came
When we arrived at Senior fame.
With all the teachers we made friends,
And thus accomplished wondrous ends.

And now we patiently await
That which tends to compensate
Us for our patience in those things—
The pleasure the diploma brings.

June Class History

EARL MCFEE

ONE September morning in 1918 we approached the old high school on Broadway and Woodfin Street with hesitating, uncertain steps. We had been told at the close of our rather strenuous seventh year to assemble in a certain room of the high school. We, however, were in no hurry to invade the mysteries of that room. We stood around in the front hall staring at the older students with a great fear in our hearts and felt tempted more than once to run. Finally, some kind teacher led us into our room. After that we were so busy making out schedules and finding our way about in the maze of stairways and halls that we lost some of our uneasiness and began to be proud that we were at last in high school. We soon became accustomed to the rooms and rules of the school and tackled the work allotted to us with grim determination to win. We worked the harder, perhaps, because of the fact that Germany was gradually losing ground, and we were inspired by the bravery of our fellow-countrymen on the battle front. Then came that glorious day, the 11th of November. Peace. A great load seemed to have been lifted from our shoulders. The year was made more irregular by the influenza epidemic which swept the country. Thus, we lost a great deal of time. To make up this time we had to attend school six days a week, and do a world of "cramming" on the outside. In spite of all this we finally emerged with a good record to our credit.

The change which came over us when we entered our second term was amusing. We looked with disdain upon the freshmen and enjoyed their blunders as much as we had smarted under our own the year before. We still had a deep-seated respect for the seniors and secretly copied after them. In this year we moved into the new high school on Oak Street. Again we had to learn the arrangement of our class rooms, and after many amusing mistakes we found we were at last in good working order. The beautiful building, so well equipped, inspired us to better work. We determined to show the people of Asheville what great things the high school could do.

A still greater interest in school work was evident in our third year. Our school was fast becoming one of the leading high schools of the state. Our class was well represented in athletics, literary societies, and other school organizations. During this term ten new students came to us from other schools.

At last the highest pinnacle was reached. We were to graduate and leave our dear old high school. We as seniors strove to do our best in all things and thereby set a standard for the others to follow. Athletics had been increasing by leaps and bounds. Two of the girls' basket ball team were in our class and all but one of the boys' team. In all we had one six-letter man, one four-letter man, two three-letter men, two two-letter men, and two one-letter men in our senior class. We number one hundred and form the largest graduating class in the history of the Asheville High School.

Now, as we are about to embark on the sea of life without the guiding hands of tireless instructors, we feel our deep obligation to them for their help. Their efforts to build our characters as well as our minds have not been in vain. We acknowledge the debt and will try to pay some of it by using our knowledge to the best advantage in our future life.

We feel sorrowful at the idea of leaving our friends and going out to seek our fortunes without their company. But we will not forget in the years that follow, for their memory is dear to our hearts and is not lightly thrust aside.

June Class Will

WE, Ethel Durham and Paul Foster, the appointed testators of that conglomerate mass of concentrated ignorance designated as the June Graduating Class of the Asheville High School, which institution is far famed for the dangerous character of its inmates, after considering the uncertainty of our further sojourn in the above institution, and being of unreasonable mind and explosive temperament, do originate, create, and perpetrate this, the last will and testament of the aforesaid class, hereby revoking all other and former wills by us at any time made.

We wish to give, bequeath, and everlastingly dispose of, after our many debts, lawful and otherwise, are paid, the following fragments of our shattered career to the designated persons, whether they need them or not:

First. To various members of our esteemed faculty we give and bequeath the following:

1. To Mr. Hyatt—
 - (a) A permanent seat in the State legislature.
 - (b) A black-jack for the purpose of collecting dues from William Lotspeitch for the "Teachers' Watch Fund."
 - (c) A 60-gallon outfit for the manufacture of Yancey County "inspiration."
 2. To Mr. Hutchins—
 - (a) A large-sized, double-face phonograph record entitled: "Somebody's Competing With Me" and "From Time to Time It Becomes Necessary."
 - (b) An elderly chaperone to accompany him in his Dodge.
 3. To Mr. Fox—An elevator, with room for two, to be operated between the physics room on the third floor and the science room on the second floor.
 4. To Mr. Wible—Howard Frady's fighting ability.
 5. To Miss Stratton—A place in the Hall of Fame as a reward for her heroic efforts in helping this group of mental deficient to graduate.
 6. To George (the only member of the faculty who really works)—A combined steam shovel and water wagon with which to clean the floors in the junior school.
- Second.* To the designated inmates of this asylum we devise and bequeath the following:
1. To Flop Morris—Another rainbow sweater that won't fade.
 2. To Mitchell Bishop—Permission to talk to Phoebe Allen during history class.
 3. To Lynn Sarsfield—Earl Donnahoe's flashy new cap, to be worn continuously.
 4. To the Trumble Twins—Large labels, whereby Ella may be distinguished from Emma.
 5. To Mildred Kimberly—A few extra feet of Herbert Murphy's altitude.
 6. To Earl McFee—A .38 six-shooter with which to collect dues for that class party.
 7. To Bob Bateman—A clarinet that won't squaw-aw-aw-awwwk!
 8. To Lucy Collins—Ida Grady's book, "How to Be a Successful Flirt."
 9. To Bill Swain—Mr. Aston's odoriferous pipe.
 10. To Ella Trumble—A sledge hammer with which to get more noise out of the piano in assembly.
 11. To Taylor Bledsoe—An extra seat for his "show-case-on-wheels."
 12. To "Kactus Kid" Sternberg—A completely equipped beauty parlor for his own private use.
 13. To Jack Felmet—A movie scene of Soup Porter's touchdown in the Monroe game.
 14. To Eleanor Vanneman—Augusta Barnett's floor-sweeping ability when playing basket ball.
 15. To Archibald Murphy—A copy of Mitchell Bishop's book, "How to Become a First-Class Lady-Killer."
 16. To James Weaver—A pair of trousers (not Mr. Fox's) that are not affected by sulphuric acid.
- We hereby appoint as sole executor of this, our last will and testament, any one foolish enough to accept the position.
- In witness thereof, we hereunto subscribe our names and affix our seals, this ninth day of June in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

THE vast wheel of Time has completed another cycle in its revolution. Our high school days are over, and Graduation thrusts us out upon the broad Highway of Life, leaving us before the great Gateway beyond which we see the long vista of the dim, and as yet unknown, Future. These four years within your portals have revealed much to us, Asheville High School. Many are the wise precepts we have observed and gleaned while under your pupilage: the beauties of English; the intricacies of math; the style of Cicero; the wonders of this earth. Yet far more important than book-knowledge is the priceless experience of trials and tests undertaken in scholastic activities: we have learned that square dealing is the only path to success; that clean sportsmanship is the only panacea for defeat; that true worth is the only measure for real manhood and womanhood. These mighty lessons will go with us into the unexplored regions of our various untried callings, and will guide us over many a dangerous hidden pitfall. Graduation leaves us with a mingled feeling of regret and expectation—regret, because the happy times of today will be but sweet memories tomorrow; expectation, because we hope to best render our debt of gratitude to you by living the noble precepts you have so faithfully imparted. If in Life there be any portion of triumph for us, the cornerstone of that triumph will have been laid during our sojourn with you, dear alma mater.

Future students, uphold your school in its every enterprise. Any plan that has the approbation or authorship of the Asheville High School should receive your whole-hearted support. Make the High School the synonym for all wholesome activity in Asheville, the prime factor of this community.

The publication of the ANNUAL marks the successful close of this year's work of the two HILLBILLY staffs. With the help of Miss Eleanor Stratton and Mrs. W. J. Barton, faculty advisers to the Blue, and Miss Anna Butler, faculty adviser to the Brown, we have been able to get out six copies of THE HILLBILLY. We close our books for the year, and extend best wishes to next year's staffs.

It is fitting that the school express its appreciation to Miss Stratton for her unselfish labor in producing THE HILLBILLY. For those not actually associated with the work of publication, it is difficult to realize the amount of time and energy spent by Miss Stratton. Without her loyal perseverance and help in every way this ANNUAL and the HILLBILLY would have been impossible.

We extend our sincerest thanks to every subscriber for his interest in us, every staff member for his effort, our faculty advisers for their kindness—in short, to all who have assisted THE HILLBILLY in any way.

Throughout the year we have given our best to this magazine, ever striving toward the goal of ultimate perfection. We hope that THE HILLBILLY has been pleasing in every respect. If it has been, then we shall feel recompensed for our pains. And now we leave the ANNUAL of '22 with you as the climax of our most earnest endeavor.

PATRICIA EDGEWORTH.

HILLBILLY AND ANNUAL STAFFS

The Asheville High School Magazine has been, for the last three years, divided into a
Blue Staff and a Brown Staff.

These two Staffs get out alternate issues of the Magazine.

Three judges decide which staff has produced the best numbers.

The Brown won this year.

The winning staff has its color on the cover

Departments

English

As we go to press, the English Department is getting ready its exhibit for Commencement week. There are collections of the 1,500-word research essays bound in attractive covers bearing such titles as: American Problems; A. H. S. Science Monthly; A. H. S. Miscellany; A. H. S. Literary Review; World Reflectors; and many others. Each member of the senior class is required to write one of these 1,500-word essays.

Each member of the senior class also writes an informal essay of 1,000 words. They are bound separately and in groups. The groups bear such titles as: Fantasies; Summer Idyls; Familiar Essays, etc.

The orations make up the third group of senior compositions. These orations are each 1,000 words in length and are of great variety.

The junior class has a collection of poetry both lyric and narrative, many short stories and dramatizations, which is the special work of this year. This class also has a most wonderful exhibit of hand-made newspapers and magazines. The cartoons in them are most excellent. Those of Charles Logan will compare creditably with the cartoons in first-class newspapers.

There is a beautiful collection of calendars, clipping cases, gift cards, and memory books—all the work of the pupils.

In addition to all this upper class work there are notebooks from the sophomore and freshman classes, showing all the work of the year. These essays, stories, and notebooks are attractively bound in colored covers and neatly lettered. In many cases the covers are painted in water colors. There are also collections of letters from the various classes bearing upon different phases of business and social life. This entire exhibit is part of the regular written English work. The senior English classes have had some very interesting work in oral composition. They have had in addition to various speeches of the occasions, etc., a number of very enjoyable mock banquets.

The magazine staff has put out six numbers of THE HILLBILLY and the Annual.

On a whole the year's work in English has been very satisfactory. We are sorry that we have to go to press too soon to announce the various prize winners in the oral and written composition contests. The commissioners offer a gold medal to the boy or girl writing the best 1,500-word research essay and a medal to the boy delivering the best original speech of the occasion. Miss Queen Carson offers a gold medal to the girl delivering the best original speech of the occasion.

There is also a cash prize for the best informal essay. In addition to this the two Asheville Chapters of the United Daughters of the Confederacy offer gold medals for the best essays on Jefferson Davis and Fontaine Maury.

The twelve stages showing scenes from Macbeth made by last year's class will be on exhibition again. These are miniature stages 18 by 15 inches with dolls representing the characters. Some of these scenes are very beautiful and realistic.

The Dramatic Association

MISS JULIA BLAUVELT

This year marks a period of great achievement for the Dramatic Association. Under the supervision of Miss Bertha May Johns, the interest as well as the number of members has grown remarkably. The Dramatic Association has come to form a more important part of the school life than ever before. It has not only developed individually those students in the organization, but has afforded entertainment and promoted school spirit in the entire student body. At the beginning of the spring term it became necessary to organize two classes. Each of these classes has been hard at work and has made much progress in the art of Dramatics.

Soon after the beginning of school several plays were read by the Association, and "Tommy's Wife" and the "Return of Deborah" were chosen to be presented. As soon as the cast was selected, practice was begun and these plays were given in the High School Auditorium on the evening of December 15th. These plays met with great success and were attended by large and appreciative audiences.

On the evening of April 6th the second production of the year was presented. This play, "Engaged by Wednesday," featured an excellent cast and met with no less approval than the others. Practically all of the members of the Association have been featured in one of these plays, and the success they achieved speaks well for the coaching of Miss Johns.

The proceeds of the first play were used by the Association to purchase much-needed scenery for the stage. This scene, which is an outdoor one, has been skillfully painted and is beautiful in every detail. This attractive scenery was used in the next play and added greatly to the charm of the production.

The Dramatic Association voted unanimously that the proceeds of "Engaged by Wednesday" should be given to THE HILLBILLY Annual Fund. This play met with such marked success and was so well attended that after all bills were paid they were able to turn over to THE HILLBILLY $162.00. Besides the $162.00 given to THE HILLBILLY the Dramatic Association has $25.00 which will stay in the treasury as a fund for the first expenses of next term.

Besides that part of its work that has been put before the public, much work has been done in class toward developing self-expression in the student, not only in voice training but also in freedom and ease when upon the stage. The knees of the more timid members have ceased to shake at the mention of pantomime, and all members of the classes feel more sure of themselves as a result of the training. Many sketches and short plays have been worked up in class in which there has been a good opportunity to develop dramatic talents. These sketches have been presented before the student body from time to time.

DRAMATIC ASSOCIATION

Household Arts Department

The Household Arts Department of the High School departed from its ordinary line of work and did some philanthropic work this year.

About a month before Christmas the 7B classes, which are under the instruction of Miss Hawthorne, dressed dolls for the Associated Charities. Over fifty dolls were dressed, the dolls and materials being donated by the children. In order to stimulate a keener interest in this work three prizes were offered. The prizes were won by Alice Stone, first; Evelyn Jackson, second; Marion Edwards, third. The 8A girls made two complete outfits of clothes for an orphan at the Children's Home at Grace. Great interest is shown by the students in this work.

Last fall the girls in the sewing department decided that they wished to purchase a loom so that they could see for themselves the making of cloth. To raise the money for this loom the girls, under the direction of Misses Robbins, Hawthorne, and Farmer, made articles suitable for Christmas gifts and had a sale. They cleared about $42 from this sale. Since it takes about $100 to buy a loom, this money has been placed in the bank where it will remain drawing interest until next year, when the classes will give a bazaar to raise the rest of the money needed to buy the loom.

The girls in the fourth year classes were offered two prizes this year. The Parent-Teachers' Association offered a prize of $5 for the best graduating dress made at a cost of $6 or less. Another $5 prize was offered by Miss Robbins, the head of the Household Arts Department, for the best sport suit made in either the third or fourth year classes.

The third and fourth year cooking classes entertained the Parent-Teachers' Association at their monthly meeting in May. The second and third year classes, also in May, entertained members of the Senior Class at an afternoon affair.

In the latter part of the year the Wake Forest Glee Club came to Asheville. The Household Arts Department "boosted" the entertainment given by the Glee Club and received a certain per cent of the proceeds.

Through the entire course in sewing each girl learns to make all of her own clothes, as well as clothes for her little sisters and brothers. The course in Household Economics is one of the most important courses offered in the High School. Each year from 300 to 325 girls take advantage of this course.

A very popular place at noon recess is the lunch room. Miss Robbins is at the head of the lunch room and the girls in the cooking classes get some of their work in nutrition there. The lunch room is run on cafeteria style and about four hundred students and teachers eat there each day. Most of the students spend from fifteen to twenty cents and receive a very nourishing meal. For the students who bring part of their lunch or do not care to eat in the cafeteria Miss Robbins has placed tables in the basement hall, where they can get milk, hot chocolate, sandwiches, cakes, candy, fruit, and ice cream.

There is no appropriation made for the cafeteria and Miss Robbins has to make it pay for itself. This is not always an easy matter, but, so far, by exercising the greatest economy and judgment she has been able to meet expenses and give the children nourishing and appetizing food at a minimum cost.

The teachers of the school are under special obligation to Miss Robbins for her kindness and consideration of their needs. The school is indeed fortunate in having such an efficient teacher as Miss Robbins as supervisor of the Household Arts Department.

Manual Arts Department

It has been our endeavor in the Manual Training Department this year to so reorganize the courses that they will be on as definite and progressive a basis as any other school subject. This has been accomplished by outlining two distinct courses in both the Woodworking and Mechanical Drawing Departments. These courses give a total of four units' credit to those students taking the Industrial Course.

In the Woodworking Department the courses offered are "Elementary Woodworking" and "Advanced Woodworking." In the Mechanical Drawing Department the courses offered are "Elementary Mechanical Drawing" and "Advanced Mechanical Drawing."

One of the great educators of our country has said that "Education is Adjustment." We might add that a great deal of that "Adjustment" is accomplished by Experiences, and it is our endeavor, in the Manual Training Department, to give as many experiences of an Industrial nature as possible. By this we do not mean experiences necessarily of a Factory nature, but those which will help to develop a better appreciation of the big field of Industry.

IT is to be seen that this page has been ~~folded~~ up for the Manual Arts Department. We welcome this opportunity to once more upon the idea that everyone must add his ~~hand~~ to help make the Year Book a success

One of the big aims of all Education is to help folks to discover and use their hidden capabilities. This Department tries to further that aim by providing courses of a Vocational and Industrial nature in order that students may try-out their abilities in this line. We believe, however, in helping each student to ~~work~~ out a suitable course, and that the successful ones in life are those who early learn to ~~work~~ their own way thru; ~~sawing~~ their actions to suit the work in hand. ~~A~~ of your attention will ~~call~~ you about, but a blow with the ~~saw~~ will soon dispose of them.

We hope that reading this page will cause you to ~~get~~ up and ~~be~~ truer to the line. If your saw is dull, ~~sharpen~~ it.

Yours for a Year-Book with a ~~sharp~~ and a Student-Body full of "Pep"

Literary Societies

Athenean

At the conclusion of the spring term the Athenean Literary Society has finished one of the most successful years of its history. Under the leadership of Joe Cantwell and Lawrence Manley and with the faithful guidance of Mr. Hyatt, our faculty adviser, the organization has reached the high water-mark of its existence. As proof of the excellent training given by the society, we advance the fact that both young men who made the Triangle Debating Team and both the alternates are Atheneans.

It is not the habit of the Athenean Society to take the achievements of their predecessors as models and to its future torch bearers we say, "Make each year better than the last." Many of our most prized members leave us this year, and in their stead the rising young speakers from the sophomore and junior classes must be substituted. However, we have an abundance of good material at hand, and when next spring rolls around with its annual choice of debaters, the name of the Athenean Society will be foremost in the list of participants.

GEORGE WHITSON.

Cooper

This has been a very trying year for the Cooper Society on account of many conflicting circumstances which greatly interfered with the regularity of the meetings. However, in spite of the many distracting events a number of very successful meetings were held and good programs were presented.

In the election held at the beginning of the fall term the following officers were elected: Sam Pgram, President; John Fisher, Vice-President; Harold Cheadle, Secretary; Reynolds Florence, Treasurer; and Carl Rhinehardt, Marshal. These officers performed their duties until relieved at the beginning of the spring term by the election of the following new officers: Stacy Smith, President; Charles Porter, Vice-President; William Knowles, Secretary; John Fisher, Treasurer; and Paul Foster, Marshal. Mr. Hamilton was chosen faculty adviser, and he stood ready at all times to render any assistance or give any advice that was needed.

The Cooper Society presents several candidates for the honors of Annual Commencement Debate, and it is confidently expected that they will give a good account of themselves, adding new laurels to the name and fame of the Cooper Literary Society.

The members of the society who are graduating this year wish for the Coopers of next year an early organization, and a year of regular and well-attended meetings.

Cleonian

The Cleonians have had a most successful year. Many of the senior girls who were not affiliated with any society have just realized this year what an active and energetic society we are and have proved that they liked us by joining. This is easily shown by the fact that our membership is more than double what it was last fall. During these two short terms we have held many interesting meetings, both business and social. Our programs have been short but very entertaining. Those who have participated in our debates have benefited by the training, and we Cleonians are looking forward to next year when one of the teams which will represent this school in the Triangular Debate shall be chosen from the society. We are proud of the two girls from this society who took part in the debate recently, and we know the Cleonian will produce many more like them.

Girls, join the Cleonians of 1923!

ETHEL DURHAM.

Weber

Everyone interested in the Weber Literary Society in any connection is more than satisfied with the year's work. A few faithful members of last year stayed with the society, and have built it up to its present successful point. To begin with we were especially fortunate in having Miss Bryan as our faculty adviser. Then with Helen Williams as president, Eleanor Vannaman as vice-president, and Helen Brown as secretary-treasurer, the society began to steadily increase in members and interest. After the awful and inspiring initiation we realized that this was a society equal to any.

The officers of the second semester were: President, Eleanor Vannaman; Vice-President, Mary Harris; and Secretary-Treasurer, Martha Hall. Especially are we proud of our commencement debaters.

Of course we have had our disappointments and we have been discouraged at times, too. But the officers have never given up the ship, and even a better term is expected next year.

School Organizations

Orchestra

The High School Orchestra is by no means an old organization. It is something new, having been in existence only about sixteen months. It was reorganized at the beginning of this school year with the purpose of making it a permanent institution. It has made an excellent start, having increased in number from only a few members until today it has more than a dozen instruments with a possibility of more to be added later. Although this is a small number compared with some orchestras, remember that it is yet young and will grow in time. But of what good is an orchestra without a leader? It is of no value. Fortunately we have been able to secure the services of Mr. E. N. Howell, who has helped wonderfully. It was through his assistance and effort that we have an orchestra this year. Here's hoping that this organization will be as strong or even stronger next semester.

JAMES MATHIS.

Student Club

The Student Club of the Asheville High School has added another successful year to its many preceding ones. The program committee has been on the job, and every meeting has been instructive as well as interesting and entertaining.

The girls went into their work with an enthusiasm truly commendable. Through the effort of our advisers, Misses Bowen, Weaver, Fraser, Johns, and Arthur, a series of vocational talks were given. They were inspiring to everyone. We were also lucky enough to secure Miss Margaret Sayre to give an impersonation of the first act of "Daddy Long Legs." We had as our guests that afternoon the girls from the Normal. The members of the club thought it only fitting to remember the faculty on the twenty-second of February with a tea and attractive program at the Y.W.C.A.

A talk on conditions in Japan, given by Miss Hard, a returned Y.W.C.A. secretary, was another feature worthy of comment.

The following officers were elected for the term of 1922-23: Nell Cauble, President; Augusta Barnett, Vice-President; Hazel Thompson, Secretary; Martha Hall, Treasurer; and Margaret Praytor, Reporter. The retiring officers wish to express their appreciation for the co-operation of the students.

DOROTHY JORDAN.

The Latin Club

The Latin Club has again been organized this year with the view of giving the students an opportunity for doing more research work. It has now been in existence for three years, and through the efforts of the pupils has been steadily improving. Owing to the difficulty of holding a general meeting of the club, each individual class elects its own officers and conducts its own programs.

These programs contribute much towards forming a historical basic for the works of Caesar, Cicero, and Virgil. The private life of the Romans, their customs, art, and literature are eagerly discussed. Many of the myths of these ancient peoples are also read. The programs are not only instructive, but they tend to awaken the interest of the students.

The club has also been actively engaged in preparing the "Latin Bulletin" for publication. The magazine requires a considerable amount of work on the part of the students. Each member of the club is required to write some suitable article. The best are then selected and placed in the magazine. The members endeavor to select articles which will interest not only the Latin pupils but the entire student body. The students and the Latin teachers have had much difficulty in raising the money with which to publish it, but through their faithfulness in the work they have succeeded in getting the required amount.

The students are doing their utmost to make the club and the magazine better than they have ever been in the past, and according to the words of Virgil,

"Labor omnia vincit," they cannot fail.

Triangular Debate

The Asheville High School has many things of which it is justly proud. Every spectator who gazed over the attentive and enthusiastic assembly which greeted our triangular debaters in the auditorium on the night of March 24th readily discovered in what high esteem this feature of school life is held by the students. In Asheville, Jeannette Nance and Gertrude Tennant upheld the affirmative side of the query: "Resolved, That the United States should enter the League of Nations"; in Winston-Salem, Mitchell Bishop and Taylor Bledsoe upheld the negative. We applaud our 1922 debaters for their excellent speeches and their high-spirited poise. The speeches of each individual of both the teams showed that much research and time had gone into the preparation of the debate as well as practice in its delivery under the untiring and unselfish direction of Messrs. Hyatt and Hamilton, who coached the affirmative and negative teams, respectively. As our debaters and the debaters from Greensboro marched to the platform from the rear of the Auditorium to the music of the High School Orchestra, we realized, perhaps for the first time, with what dignity we were being represented, and a feeling of pride possessed us. We won the affirmative, but we were defeated in the negative, and though eliminated from the finals, we want to express our pride in both teams, and our appreciation of the generous spirit in which their coaches expended many hours and much energy on our behalf. The high plane of debating and good sportsmanship evidenced by this year's teams should make next year's students endeavor to attain the honor of representing the Asheville High School in similar contests with other North Carolina schools.

In this connection we feel that we should pay a special tribute to Mr. Hyatt, who for three successive years has been back of everything which he thought would be of benefit to the student body. During his college days he was considered one of the best debaters the University of North Carolina had produced; therefore, his particular work in the High School has been the Triangular Debates. Up to his coming to the school, we had shown no especial interest in debating; later we were attracted to it by his enthusiasm. Under his wise leadership our teams have become the strongest in the state. The first year he was with us Mr. Hyatt trained the teams composed of Adelyn Harris and Fred Barnard, Clifton Ervin and Arthur Kale. These teams were successful, and brought the Aycock Cup from Chapel Hill. Last year he coached the teams made up of Gertrude Tennant and Arthur Kale, Lindsey Gudger and Theodore Livingston. In the debates of the last two years we have been put out of the race by losing one decision in each of the first preliminaries. We are deeply grateful and appreciative of Mr. Hyatt's zeal and effort in instilling this spirit of mental activity into our school life, for, while all have not debated, all have been vitally interested.

Football

The football team of 1921 will go down in High School athletic history as the best team which has ever represented the school. A large measure of the credit for the splendid record of the team is due to the efficient coaching of B. S. Frei. Starting the season with five letter-men, Coach Frei built up a hard-hitting, smooth-running machine whose jump-shift soon became famous.

Nine games were played during the season; six of these were won, two lost, and one tied. The outstanding victory was won in the game with the Asheville School, our strongest opponent. After this game the team and the student body entertained great hopes for State Championship honors. However, it was not so to be for a combination of weather and circumstances, assisted by the Shelby team, shattered our hopes and blasted our chances of being State Champions. But profiting by experience, we hope that 1922 will tell a different story.

The management of the team for next season is in the hands of Philip Atkinson, captain, and Jack Felmet, manager.

Considering the amount of material on hand and the difficulties under which we were placed, Asheville High School had a very successful gridiron season. With six letter-men back, forming the nucleus of the squad, Coach Burton S. Frei rounded into shape the best grid team that has ever represented the Asheville High School.

At center Donnahoe proved himself to be a real football player and was always in the fight. Left guard was filled by Captain Felmet, a brick wall for the opposing line plungers. Jack Smith, at left tackle, always played stellar ball. Branch, our left end, was always at the right spot at the right moment to receive a pass and kept his territory well guarded. Soup Porter and Frank Atkinson were the right wing of our brick wall, never giving an inch. Phil Atkinson at right tackle was the fright to every opposing team, while Lawrence Manley took care of right end. At quarter, Brandon Hodges was the logical man. He exhibited his ability to run a team on the field and never gave up fighting until the final whistle blew. At left half-back Bernard Manley was placed. As fleet as a deer, he would run circles around the opposing ends, while Cheadle, at right half-back, would carry the ball through the line for consistent gains. Chakales, who was chosen as the best full-back in Western Carolina, was of great benefit to the team.

Other men who deserve special mention were Stacy Smith, Edgar Ferguson, and Harry Johnson, all backfield men. The rest of the squad include Robert Finley, Harold McLean, Jack Brown, and Howard Frady.

HAROLD CHEADLE.

Basket Ball

Of the three major sports of the school this year, basketball was undoubtedly the most successful. Under the superb coaching of Burton S. Frei, a team was formed surpassing any basketball team that has ever represented the Asheville High School. Coach Frei had four letter-men in uniform at the first call. After a month's sound coaching, Frei picked Captain Sarsfield and Earle Donnahoe for the forward positions. Both of these men were fast and both have a deadly eye for the basket. At center, John Branch proved to be a miracle. During the season he scored more points than any other player in Western Carolina.

Cheadle and Chakales were placed as guards. Always up to some trick, these two men often held the entire opposing team to three or four field goals.

Working together like clockwork, this team started the season off with a bang, winning six straight games before the first defeat. With an offense that was never stopped and a defense that was never broken, we copped the Western North Carolina Conference Championship. We were then forced out of the state title race by the strong Charlotte High School five. As the result of the fine work throughout the season, Branch, Donna-hoe, and Cheadle were on the All-Conference team. Captain Sarsfield and Chakales were given honorable mention.

Branch led the scoring with 264 points to his credit. The rest are as follows: Donnahoe, 188; Sarsfield, 120; Cheadle, 73; Chakales, 14; Johnson, 8; Brandl, 8; Moore, 6; and Jones, 5. We scored 686 points to our opponents' 326 with an average score of 43-20.

Base Ball

With the strongest, hardest hitting Football Team and the fastest Basketball Team that the Asheville High School has ever produced, representing us this year, Baseball will have to go it strong to measure up to standard. We believe that it will. From the motley crowd that answered Coach Frei's call to practice, a well-organized, heavy-hitting team has sprung. With the boosting of Captain Branch the team is fast gaining in momentum. Again we see visions of the State Championship. So far our season has been successful. Jim Buckner held our ancient rivals from Asheville School to three hits, while the rest of the team walloped the pill for thirty-five runs. Joe Bryson, another of our star twirlers, led the Maroon and Black to victory over the Farm School, which has only been defeated once this season. Mitchell Bishop, our other pitcher is showing up spendidly, winning the game against Highland Hospital. Manager Chackles has arranged a hard schedule, and we art glad of it. The more games, the more experience for the Championship Series. The line-up is as follows:

Claude Britt	Catcher

Girls' Basket Ball

While eliminated in the western division girls' basketball championship series, the Maroon and Black basketeers may boast of one of the best quintets in western North Carolina. Only one team in this immediate section may lay claim to a better record for the entire season.

Playing a total of seventeen games the high school girls won twelve. The five games lost went to the Greensboro and Candler high schools. In three of the games with Candler the scores were: 21-19, 17-16, and 21-20—narrow margins for the quintet claiming the State Championship.

Asheville High may also boast of a high scoring season. In the 17 games a total of 382 points were scored by the Asheville forwards, while forwards on opposing teams only totaled 265 points. This gives the Hi-girls a margin, or lead, over the opposing quintets of 117 points.

The past season was characterized by the team work and passing of the high school team as a unit and not as five individuals. Team work was the motto of Miss Taylor, and she was rewarded with a season's record which any team would gladly boast of.

Augusta Barnett, captain of the aggregation, was an important factor always in the game. For scoring, the team could depend on Annie Mae Alexander. She has to her credit a total of 183 points. Eleanor Vanneman was a factor in the passing and scored 66 points during the season.

Ray Wilson, substituting at forward, demonstrated her worth to the team by amassing 32 points in the limited number of games in which she played. Irene Cook scored 20 points and Elizabeth Chapman 20.

While the dependable forwards were piling up the score against opposing teams, the varsity guards, Olivette Luther and Helen Brown, were ever on the job, cutting down to a minimum the score of opposing forwards. Much of the season's success was due to the clever work of Luther and Brown.
